FUN FACTS

There are more than 275 individual cascade within the Iguacu Falls which spans the River Iguacu. These falls are twice the width of the Niagara Falls and taller than it as well.

Paraguay's first railway line was built by British engineers from 1858-1861.

Paraguay is named after the Paraguay River, it's a Guarani word whose definition is unclear, some believe it's named after a former tribe that lived along the river, others that it means the river flowing to the sea, or some derivation of
